

Course: CIS 160 – UNIX Operating System

Credits: 3

Course Description: This course examines the concepts that are common to any Unix system using a hands-on approach to explore the UNIX file system, commands, application design and programming, and an introduction to system management.

Statement: Without my permission, you do not have the authority to record any of my class, its class members, or any content expressed here.

Revise: 6/10